Creating a new page

course page format

A page format course comes from scratch with two pages (*).

* an “home” page * an Administrator hidden (or protected) page

So you will very quickly need to add more pages.

First, turn the course in editing mode (moodle standard). The course GUI will add some editing buttons and activators. Locate the “Add page” button near the “Page Actions” dropdown.

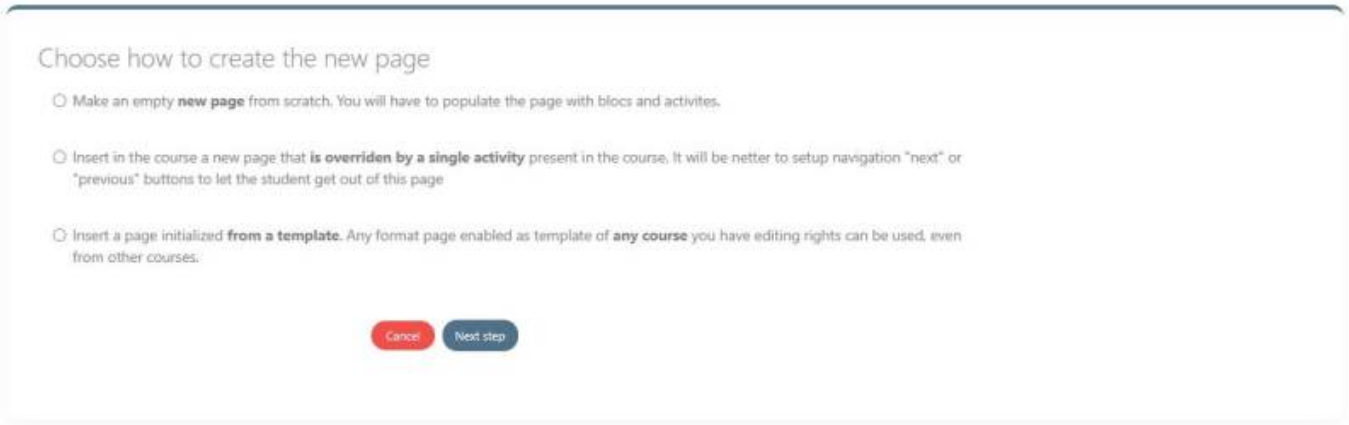

Click on the “plus” to start the “Add page wizard”.

Choosing how to create the page

Adding a page in a page format course can be done in three ways:

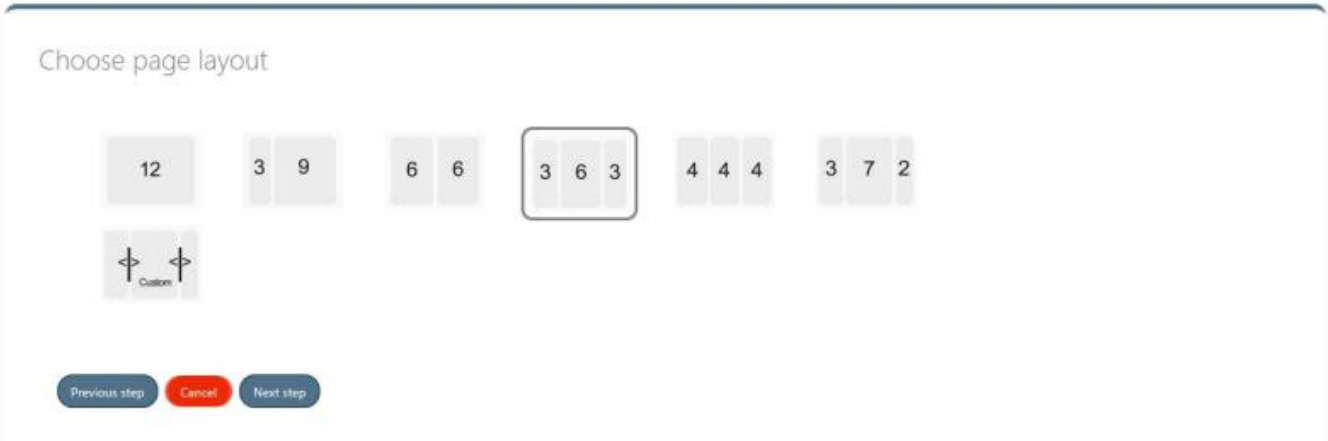

- Making a blank brand new page, you will have then to populate.
- Insert a page overriden by an existing activity of the course
- Making a new page from an available page template

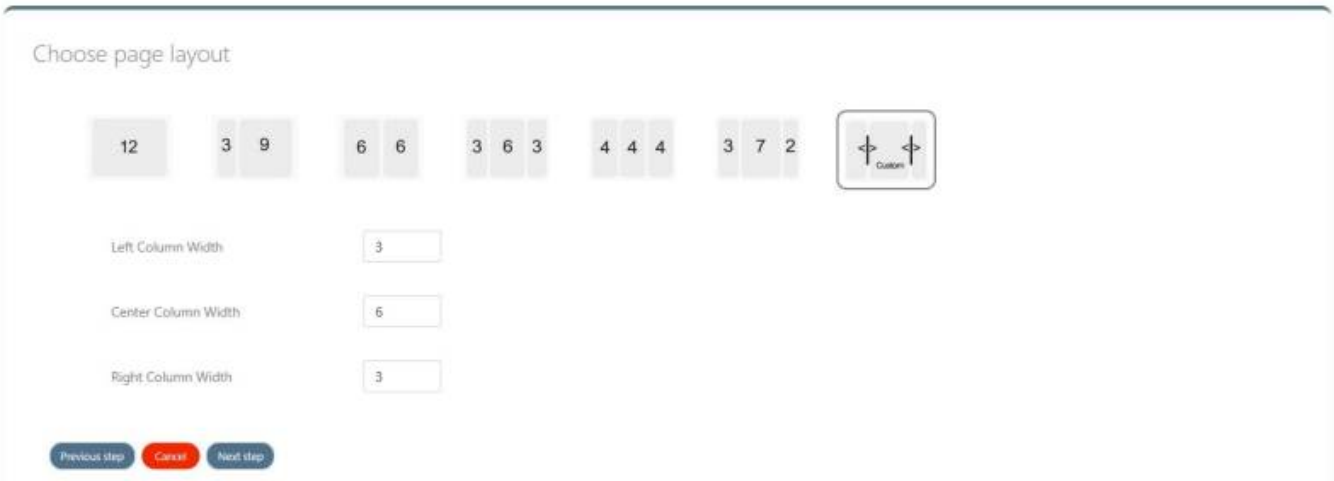

Making a brand new page

Select the first option of the first step form, than click to Next Step button.

the second step when creating a new page is to choose the page layout. The page format proposes a set of predefined formats. Page formats are boostrap divisions of the available width in 12 parts, and assigning some parts to columns.

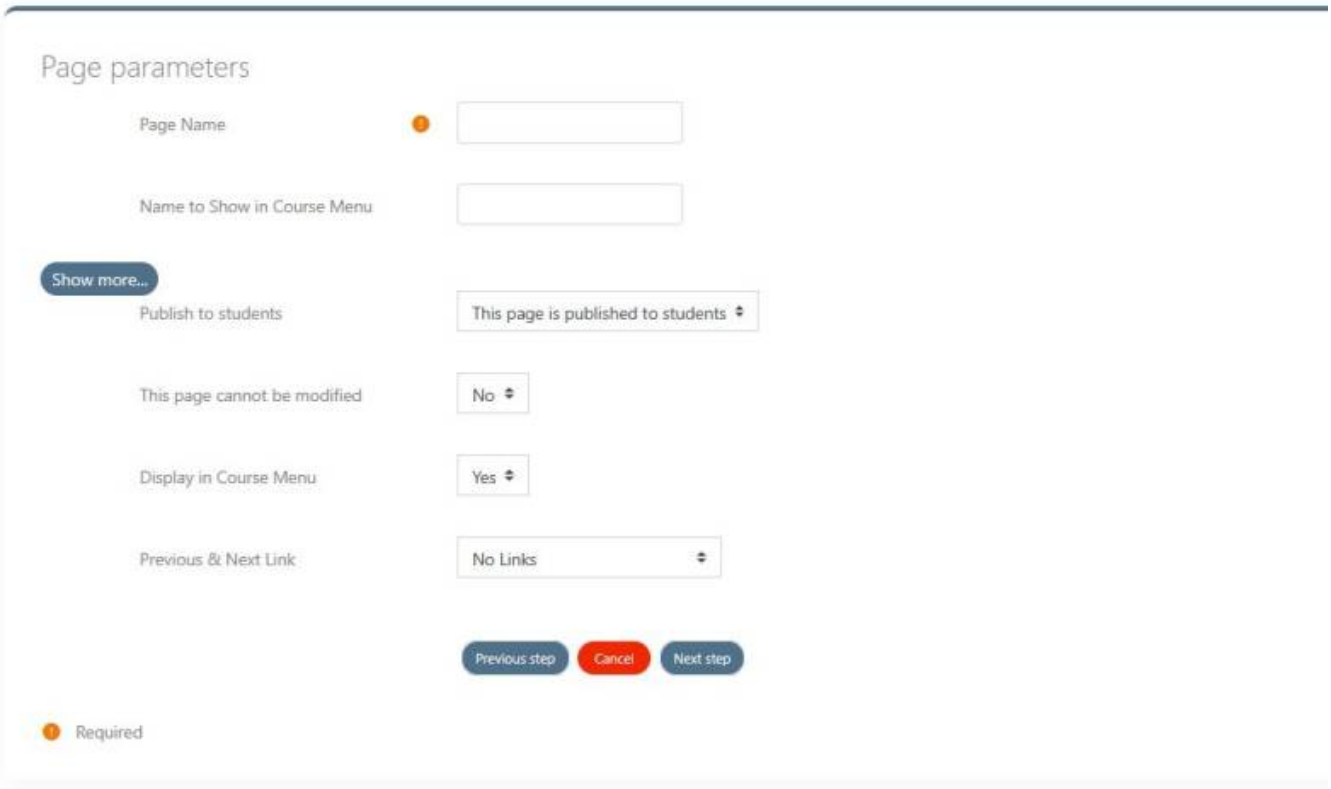

Choosing the columns widths will produce distinct arrangements on screen that may better fit the content presentation. In case none of the predefined model is convenient, you can choose the Custom Layout option that let you do what you want:

You will now enter the column widths freely, but remember the sum of width divisions must be 12.

Now it's time to enter the page settings:

Page shortname: this is an alternate shorter name that can be used in f.e. Course Summary accessory block.

(1) Your Moodle administrator may have setup a more complex course initialization, 2 pages is the "default" minimal format.
